Mrs. Sallie Bradshaw is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Hancock, Louisville.

Mr. C. E. Graham and Mr. R. U. Moss, Greensburg, were here a few days ago.

Mrs. Herman Barnett, (nee Miss Mary Myers), of St. Louis, Mo., is visiting her parents.

Mr. Forest Sharp, Amandaville, was up to the Lindsey-Wilson commencement exercises.

H. T. Baker made a business trip to Indianapolis and Terre Haute, Indiana, last week.

Mr. Cosby McBeath, Monticello, met his family here the first of the week.

Mrs. L. F. Arnett, of Nicholasville, will arrive this afternoon to spend a few weeks with Mrs. W. T. Price.

Messrs. H. W. Edmonds and J. N. Edmonds, representing the Russell County Advance, were here Monday.

Mrs. A. R. Bishop, Indianapolis, and Mrs. W. B. Hansford, Somerset, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Feese.

Mr. T. C. Faulkner, the surveyor, is spending a few days at home. At present he is laying off the lots at the Fair grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Montgomery and their grandson, Master James Montgomery, visited at the Russell Springs last Thursday.

Messrs. Kattie Coomer and Vergie Patterson, and Messrs. Toy and Van Coomer, of Pinedale, Ky., visited the News office Wednesday.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, of Johnson county, is now visiting her parents at Gradyville. Her sister, Miss Ora Moss, met her in Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. White. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Strange and their daughter, Miss Frances, and son, Sanford, visited Elk Horn and Campbellsville last Sunday.

Mrs. Lou F. Miller, who has been on an extended visit to Indianapolis, Ind., Minneapolis, Minn., and other points, returned home last Wednesday night.

Miss Vitula Rushing, of Owensboro, was taken quite ill the latter part of last week, and has been removed from the dormitory to Dr. W. J. Flowers' residence.

Miss Mary Chandler, of Campbellsville, came over to the closing and commencement exercises in the Lindsey-Wilson, and also to visit Miss Kattie Murrell.

Rev. M. M. Murrell and wife came over from Bardonia and spent several days of last week with Rev. Murrell's sister, Mrs. S. T. Hughes, who is in a low state of health.

Rev. J. S. Chandler, Campbellsville, Dr. Frank M. Thomas, and Rev. A. B. Kasey, Louisville, Messrs. Ed Hill, Campbellsville, and G. B. Smith, Columbia, members of the Educational Board, Lindsey-Wilson, held an important meeting here last Tuesday.

Dr. R. Y. Hindman, wife and little daughter, Fannie Young, and Mrs. Geo. T. Herriford have returned from a visit to Mrs. Hindman's sister, Mrs. Reid, Carthage, Tenn.

Mr. Walter Murrell, son of H. A. Murrell, Champaign, Ill., arrived last Friday for a two week's visit. He reports that his father and the rest of the family are well pleased with Illinois.

Mr. E. Moore and wife and Miss Laura Moore and Mrs. Dud McFarland, Jamestown, were visiting here the first of the week, the three former at the home of Mr. J. F. Montgomery, the latter at the home of Mr. W. T. McFarland.

Mr. Frank Jones arrived here from St. Anthony Hospital, Louisville, in company with Mr. Elmer Wheat, Friday night, and left for his home, Jamestown, Saturday morning. He is feeble, but stood the trip from Louisville very well.

Misses Sue King, Mabel Ewen, Louella Roach, Evelyn Clark, all teachers in the Graded school, left for their respective homes last Monday morning. They all gave perfect satisfaction and it is known that Misses King, Ewen and Clark will return in September. Miss Roach, as we are informed, will not teach at any place during the coming year.

Mr. V. M. Collins, who is with the Illinois Business College, Chicago, is spending a few days with his parents at Glenville. He informs us that his institution has calls for five times as many young men to fill important positions as his college can supply. Qualified young men, out of employment would find it to their interest by writing to the Illinois Business College, Chicago. The demand will be greater this fall than ever before on account of the conscription bill which recently became a law.

The names of the Jurors will be published next week.

A Ford wrench has been left at this office. 20 cents gets it.

1 quart Strawberry crates at Russell & Co., 75 cent per hundred.

At the big lot sale a brass band will discourse music during the day.

The Girl's Club will meet with Miss Eva Walker, next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

If you want to buy a town lot be at the Fair grounds Thursday May 31.

Read the big lot sale advertised in The News this week, "then come to the sale."

Wallace Coffey, who works at the McCandless bottling plant, got his left arm badly cut last week by the explosion of a bottle.

Hotels and boarding houses should make ample preparations to take care of the crowd during Chautauqua week, commencing June the 11th.

All accounts must be paid at end of each week, Saturdays. If not settled no more will be charged until settled in full.

Miss Lillian Shelley and Mr. Vander Collins were married at the home of Rev. S. G. Shelley Sunday evening. Notice will appear next week.

Every body should get their work in shape in order to be able to attend the Chautauqua, which starts in Columbia Monday, June 11, and will continue five days.

I am prepared to furnish dimension shingles at war prices. I will also do custom work. Located at Bryant & Burton's mill, Columbia, Ky.

Willie B. son of Buck Chapman, lost the ends of three fingers to the first joint and the end of his thumb on his left hand, last week, by the explosion of a dynamite cap.

A man named Willis, living on Green River, had the misfortune to get his barn destroyed by fire last week. He lost several head of stock and a lot of provender.

For Sale.

The Jo Smith harness horse, 8 years old, and a good one.

29-2t J. O. Russell.

Circuit court opened Monday and by the middle of the day the town was full of people. The docket for this term is larger than usual, as court adjourned the first week of the January term on account of the extreme cold weather, jurors and witnesses failing to get here. This term it is expected that the full two weeks will be occupied.

Dr. R. Y. Hindman, wife and little daughter, Fannie Young, and Mrs. Geo. T. Herriford have returned from a visit to Mrs. Hindman's sister, Mrs. Reid, Carthage, Tenn.

Mr. Walter Murrell, son of H. A. Murrell, Champaign, Ill., arrived last Friday for a two week's visit. He reports that his father and the rest of the family are well pleased with Illinois.

Walter Sullivan, 29-1m Asa Loy.

Mr. R. F. Paull purchased a 12 cylinder, seven passenger Packard car last week, arrived with it from Louisville last week. It is a very costly machine, one of the best of makes.

Buchanan Lyon Co., and Sandusky Bros., sold two machines in this county last week. One goes to Mrs. Carrie Walker, the other to Mr. R. C. Pulliam. Both parties live at Nell.

The Union Central Life Insurance Company will loan money on farm lands on twenty year plan and save you big interest on same. See C. C. Carroll agent for loan.

30-tf Columbia, Ky.

I keep on hands a full stock of coffins, caskets, and robes. I also keep Metallic Caskets, and Steel Boxes and two hearses. We keep extra large caskets. Prompt service night or day.

Residence Phone 29, office phone 198.

45-1 yr J. F. Trippett, Columbia, Ky.

Maj. T. B. Short, of the First Kentucky, was here last Friday. He stated that first was needing 125 more men, and that if there were those here who wanted to join a regiment of picked men, drop him a card. His address is care of the Armory, Louisville, Ky.

It is rare that a commercial college pays any attention to literary societies, but the Bowling Green Business University has two societies that have made themselves famous. They meet each other in an annual debate that attracts attention throughout the state.

Nina, a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Willis, died last Friday night, a victim of whooping cough. She was only one year old, a bright little girl, and her death brought much sorrow to the parents, brothers and sisters, all of whom have the sympathy of this town.

A Russian Band will make music for the Chautauqua. Come and hear it. The audience will also be entertained by noted men who are said to be the finest in the United States. All kinds of string instruments will be used and many noted singers will be here. June the 11th is the date.

The Ladies Cemetery Committee have taken charge, and it will be their business to see that the grounds are put in good condition, outside of private lots. Those who have lots are requested to clean them before the 30th of this month, Decoration Day. But little time to go upon, hence all interested should get busy, this week.

Messrs. Wakefield, who purchased the Fair Grounds, arrived last week and have been busy since reaching Columbia, laying off lots, preparatory for the big sale which will be pulled off May 31st. The grounds are beautiful and fifty-seven building lots have been laid off, and if a dwelling is erected on each lot, there will be quite a town in that locality.

Mrs. Mary Strange, who lives at Burkesville, and is seventy one years old, now visiting her sons and daughter in this place, seemingly is in fine health. At the expiration of her stay in Columbia she will go to Louisville, to visit her mother, who is ninety-one years old, hale and hearty; her mind being active. Mrs. Strange's maiden name was Toomey, and for many years her parents lived at Greensburg.

The services of Rev. O. P. Bush have been secured by Joe C. Sims, proprietor of the Lebanon Marble and Granite works, to represent said Sims in Adair county. The selection is a good one. Mr. Bush is in possession of a catalogue, showing all kinds and styles of stones, and would be pleased to show them to his friends when called upon to buy this character work. The Sims work can be seen in the cemetery.

Circuit Court.

Jurors and witnesses and other interested commenced to arrive in town early Monday morning and by the noon hour the square was full of people. Judge Carter arrived on time, as did also Commonwealth's Attorney A. A. Huddleston, and early in the day the Judge, had completed his instructions to the grand jury and that body was at work. The rest of the day was occupied by the Judge in calling the cases docketed and fixing the date of trial.

Many of our citizens remember the handsome and very intelligent young man—J. T. Quarles, who a number of years ago made his home with Mr. J. D. Lowe, this place. A card from him to Mr. Lowe dated May 12, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., says: "Dear John: I was ordered to this camp for training for the officers reserve corps. The Adjutant General's office asked me to come, and I feel flattered to be here. I only hope to make good."

Mr. Paul Waggener, who has been making his headquarters in Louisville for some time, returned home last week, and will engage in farming. He made application to join the reserve officers corps, but he was advised that if he was in a position to farm, to remain at home, go to work, raising food for the boys in the trenches. He expects to put in a large crop, and will be in charge of his aunt's farm, Mrs. Bettie Conover, near Columbia.

Kizzie Grady, who was the wife of Robert Grady, a prosperous and very reliable colored man of Gradyville, died last Saturday morning. A week before her demise she was thrown from a buggy, her horse becoming unmanageable, breaking one of her legs. From the time the accident occurred she gradually grew worse until death came. A large number of friends, colored and white, attended the funeral. All Gradyville is in sympathy with the husband, as the deceased was a very useful woman.

Mrs. Mary S. Bigg entertained the members of her Sunday school class with a picnic, last Thursday afternoon, at her beautiful home on the Campbellsville pike. All kinds of games were played and the children spent a very pleasant time. The attempts to fly balloons was a failure, on account of the wind, and another attempt will be made later. The following were present: Allene Nell, Leona Bryant, Walker Bryant, Margaret Harris, Frances Lyon, of Campbellsville; John Beard, Ira Hutchison, Irene Hurt, Opal Waggener and brother, Allen Patteson, J. Frank Walker, Margaret Bennett, Anna Dohoney, Rachel Coffey, Louise Grissom, Ernestine Richardson, Leighton Smythe, Rich Smythe, Nell Smith, Oliver Price Bush, Sheldon Bush, Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beard and Mrs. J. P. Hutchison.

Ideal School Town.

Bowling Green is an ideal school town. There is not a saloon within seventy miles. The Bowling Green Business University is fortunate in being located in such a place.

Miss Matilda Hood Dead.

Last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the subject of this notice died at the home of Mr. Bailey Webb. She was 75 years old and had been an invalid for several years. She was a sister of T. B. Hood. She was buried Sunday on Mr. Hood's farm.

Apply at Once.

We will pay a good salary, to the right man, to handle our business in Adair county. We want an application at once.

Singer Sewing Machine Co., Write G. R. Holt, Campbellsville Ky.

29-3t

A Card.

I am a candidate for the office of Assessor of Adair County, subject to the action of the Republican party, at the coming primary election. I hardly think it necessary for me to say that, since I arrived at the age of manhood, I have given freely and gladly, my best efforts to the cause, in every contest. My record is an open book, and well-known to all those who have engaged in our political struggles. I submit my claims to the Republicans of the county, on my political record and qualifications for the office. Past experience should convince the public that this is one of the most important offices in the gift of the people, and if I did not believe that I am qualified with credit to myself and the party I would not ask your support. No man should be elected to any office who has to depend on some one else to perform its duties. If elected, I shall give my undivided attention to the work, and will look after its most minute details. If nominated I will devote my entire time from the primary until the November election, in an effort to bring victory to the entire ticket. Hoping to see the Voters in person between now and the primary, I am with best wishes for Republican success in November.

L. H. Jones.

There was some stock on the market Monday, prices ruling high.

The Lindsey-Wilson.

Last Friday night marked the closing of the Fourteenth year of the Lindsey-Wilson Training School.

The term has been one of the most successful in the history of the institution, the dormitories being full of young men and young ladies almost continuously.

There was an intermission of three weeks early in the spring on account of one case of smallpox making its appearance in the boys' dormitory, the pupils all going to their respective homes, but the popularity of the school was demonstrated, when it reopened, all the pupils with but few exceptions returning. But sickness will not again necessitate the calling off of time, as an additional building, comfortably furnished, will be erected away from the main buildings, to be used as a hospital, in the event sickness should make its appearance.

There is not a more healthy location in Kentucky than where the Lindsey-Wilson buildings are situated. They are located on a hill, giving a fine view of the whole town of Columbia. There is plenty of shade, and the water is as fine as ever come out of the ground. The buildings are heated by steam and are lighted by electricity. This school was founded by the Louisville Conference and citizens of Columbia and Adair county and the Columbia district, mainly for training boys and girls to enter college and fill useful stations in life. The course of study is correlated with Vanderbilt University and conforms to the entrance requirements of the best of colleges. The fourteen years of its existence has fully justified the wisdom of its founders. Nearly fifty thousand dollars has been expended in erecting the buildings and furnishing the same. More than a half dozen towns were after the school, but the enterprising people of Columbia won out by their most liberal donations.

The Educational Board of the Louisville Conference was here last week, and it reported that it was well pleased with this year's work.

The Board announced that before September every thing necessary to be done would be accomplished.

Several weeks ago Prof. Paul Chandler was elected principal for the ensuing year.

There will be an ample and competent corps of teachers, all the names of the faculty to be announced in the next week or two. A number of experienced men are available.

Before the Lindsey-Wilson was established, Columbia had a population, according to the census, of 622 souls. It now numbers its inhabitants to something close to 1,500. There have been more dwellings built in Columbia in the last fourteen years than were in it before the school was started.

The patronage of the Lindsey-Wilson comes from a distance in the main, as there is also supported, in this town a Graded School doing good work.

The pupils who come from a distance patronize our merchants and grocers, hence Columbia business men are greatly benefitted in a financial way. It should be the pride of every thinking person in Adair county. Its friends are not only loyal to the school, but also glory in the advancement of the town.

RECITAL AND GRADUATING EXERCISES

The recital given Thursday evening by the music and expression department drew a large and attentive audience.

The program consisted of piano and expression numbers besides two choruses which were very much enjoyed. The larger pupils evinced skill.

Friday evening the graduating exercises were held, and the class consisting of Miss Nellie Huffaker, Messrs. Howard Garner, Robert Willis, William Hynes, Tye Faulkner, from the Training School course, Miss Sallie E. Murphy expression and Miss Margie Buster music, presented a splendid program, after which a most excellent address was made by Rev. R. V. Bennett, of Louisville.

This was followed by the presentation of diplomas and short addresses by Prof. Moss and Prof. Chandler.

Prospects are very flattering for a successful coming year, and every thing points to a very bright future for this already splendid institution.

Close of the Graded School.

This institution was closed last Friday evening with an address from Eld. Wyatt Montgomery, of Campbellsville. A large audience greeted the speaker, who spoke for an hour in a most entertaining manner. He gave in a most impressive way much wholesome advice, and the pupils seemed to drink in every word. There was special music by a select choir.

The past year has been very successful for the school, and its future prospects are bright.

Prof. Abner, who is a teacher of experience and a constant worker, will not be at the head of the school the coming year, he having tendered his resignation some weeks ago. He will be succeeded by Prof. R. R. Moss, who has been a co-principal of the Lindsey-Wilson since the latter school was established, fourteen years ago. There is nothing in the way of a Graded School prospering, as it is supported by taxation by the people living in the district, and in this way many poor children secure an education.

Columbia is proud of its two institutions of learning.

Prof. Moss, who will go to this school, needs no introduction, as he is known as a competent teacher by the entire county.

Splendid Recital.

The music and expression recital by pupils of Miss Alice Walker and Mrs. Ray Montgomery, at the Graded School Gym, last Wednesday evening, was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience. So well did each one of the pupils perform, the teachers could not help but feel that their efforts in instructing had not been in vain. Certainly the audience was delighted in seeing and hearing such gifted pupils. Miss Walker is a skilled pianist, and rapidly imparts her knowledge, while as an expression teacher, Mrs. Montgomery is one among the best.

Latest War News.

Along the Western front, there has been little infantry activity, but the artilleries continue to bombard important points. Field Marshal von Hindenburg apparently is convinced that his armies cannot regain the ground captured in the past six weeks by the French and British and the Germans for the present are resting on their arms waiting for the next stroke by the Entente troops.

North of Gorizia, the Italians have captured the heights of Hill 652, the key to the Vodice position, in a long and severe action in which the attacking troops were compelled to advance from rock to rock. Despite desperate resistance the Austrians were driven from the stronghold with the loss of nearly 400 prisoners.

Russia, unaggressive in the field for several months because of internal dissensions is making ready under the leadership of the new coalition Government to resume an energetic campaign against the Teutonic Powers.

The Moral Value of America's Entrance into the War.

In the many months that have passed since I began this series of articles, I have discussed the entrance of various nations into the world war and sought to interpret the meaning. Now that our own country has become a belligerent, it is necessary to do the same thing once more. With the questions which are domestic, questions of duty, questions of action, I naturally shall not deal, but I shall undertake to tell quite impartially what the military effect and the larger moral effect of American entrance may be, as I sought to point out in the past the significance of Rumanian and of Italian participation.

Always with the coming of a new nation two problems arise: that of moral effect of a new and that of the material aid the new belligerent will bring. The entrance of Italy quite transformed the European conflict, because it gave it the character of a fight by the European countries against Germany, comparable utterly with the fight made against Napoleon a century ago.

The entrance of America, coinciding with the transformation of Russia from a despotism to a Republic, from autocracy to Democracy unmistakably broadens the issue of the war to a struggle between democracy and autocracy, with the Central Powers, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey, quite naturally representing autocracy and Bulgaria unhappily caught in the camp to which she does not belong, alike because of injustices resulting from the Peace of Bucharest and because of the intrigues of her Austrian sovereign. The Czar Ferdinand.

With the entrance of America the war becomes in fact a war of liberation, it becomes a war of ideas, because the greatest of neutrals and the largest of the world democracies, by its alignment with the opponents of Germany, marks its mature and deliberate verdict as to the German idea and German purpose in the world. The President of the United States, in a document which will endure, has spoken the decision of his country and that decision is a moral endorsement of the principles proclaimed by the French and British statesmen in their own declarations.

Looking backward upon my own experience in two visits to Europe during the war, I do not believe it is possible to exaggerate the effect of the moral side of this American decision. It terminates the pacifist agitations in France and great Britain. It closes the page on which were written the various attempts to attain peace by negotiation with the moral backing of the President of the United States. It gives new force and vitality to the contention of those who are directing the policies of the enemies of Germany, that there can be no peace with Germany without victory.—From "The War in its Newest Phases," by Frank H. Simonds, in the American Review of Reviews for May, 1917.

Gradyville.

Porter England made a trip to Greensburg last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wethington came down from Columbia the first of the week.

Drs. Nell and Simmons were in Columbia the first of the week.

Dr. James Taylor, of Columbia, called in to see us on his return from Edmonton, last Friday.

Messrs. Geo. A. Keltner and Allen Rose, of Keltner, spent a few days in Taylor county, last week, looking after real estate.

J. J. Parson, the well-known blacksmith of our town, spent several days in Louisville, last week, buying material for his shop.

We have several cases of whooping cough and chicken-pox in our town at this time.

R. W. Shirley, of the Milltown community, was in our midst one day last week, with one of the best mule colts, that we have seen this year. Mr. Grady never had a better one.

Strong Hill is now at work on his business house. He expects to have it completed some time during the year. When completed it will be a building just suitable for Strong's mixed stock of mds.

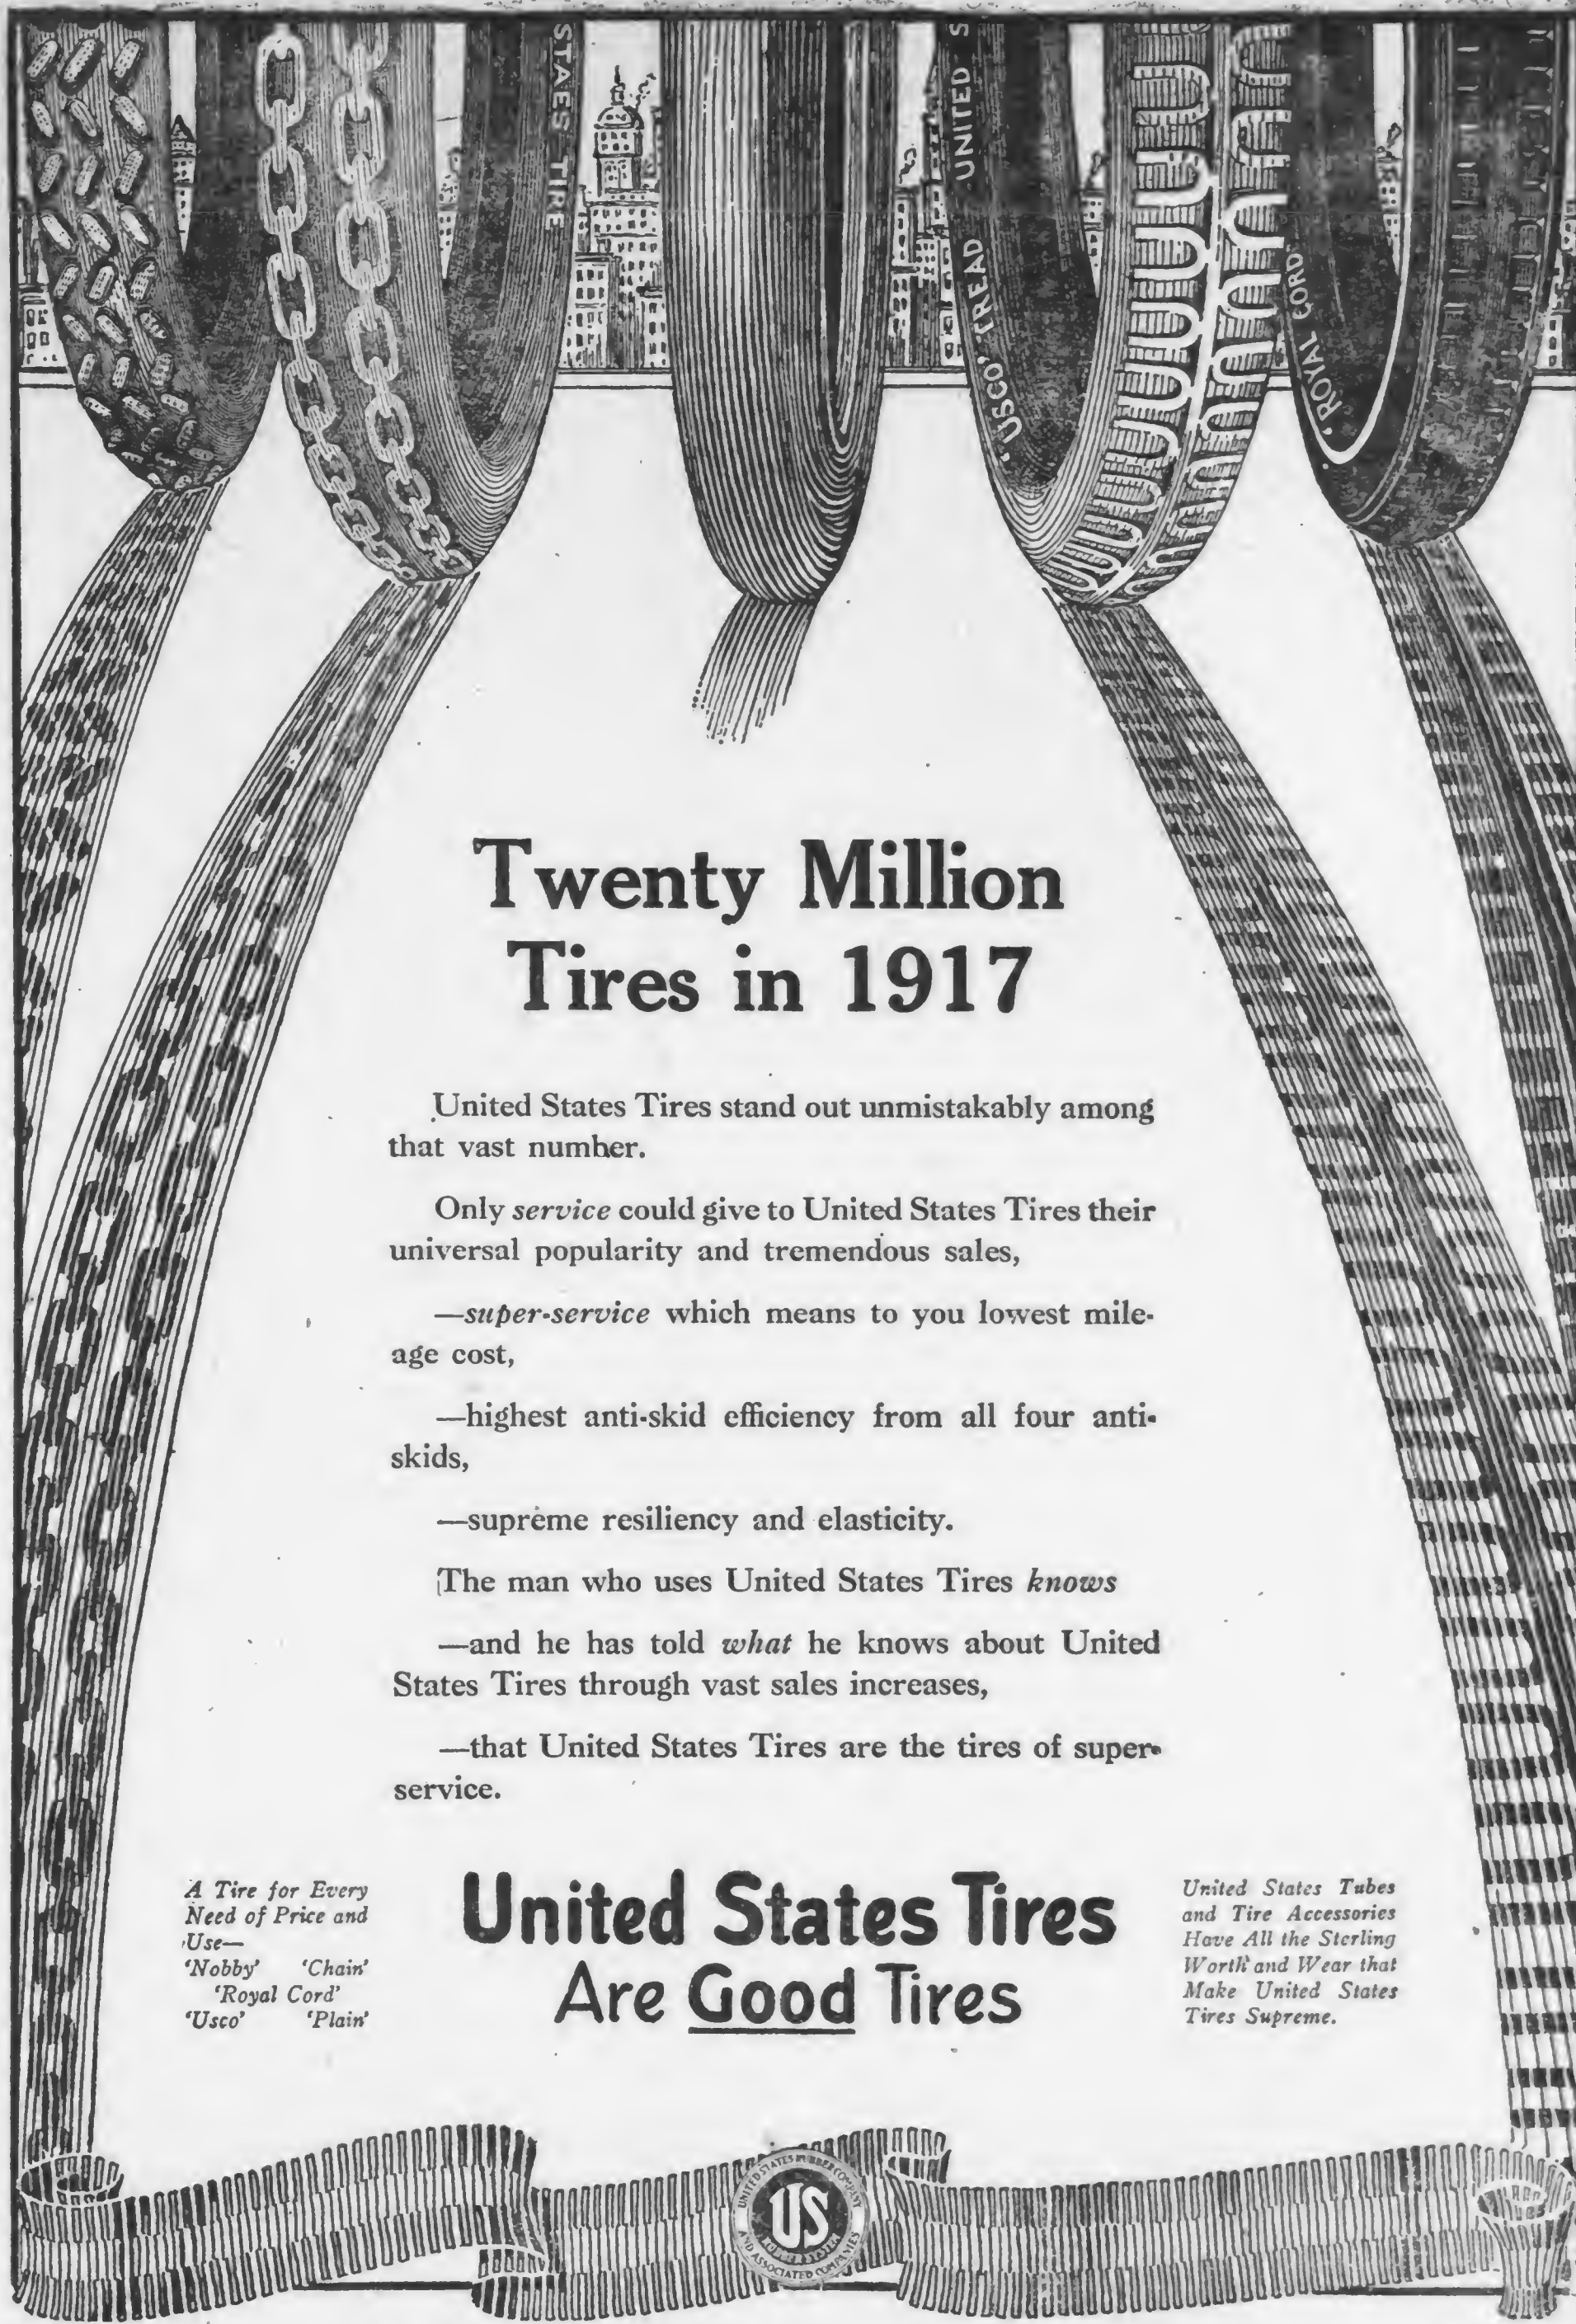

T. W. Dowell lost a valuable yearling mule colt one day last week.

Quite a number of extra good lambs in this part of the county, but we understand from our farmers that they do not want to sell before the first of July.

We hear quite a number of our farmers complaining of the scarcity of tobacco plants. From the present indications we take it that the crop of tobacco will be cut one half of what they first intended to transplant.

Quite a number of people from Nell passed through here last Friday en route for Columbia, to attend the funeral of Mrs. J. O. Russell.

Nathan Walker, of Columbia, was here last week serving notices on our people to attend court at Columbia in a few days.

Twenty Million Tires in 1917

United States Tires stand out unmistakably among that vast number.

Only service could give to United States Tires their universal popularity and tremendous sales,

—super-service which means to you lowest mileage cost,

—highest anti-skid efficiency from all four anti-skids,

—supreme resiliency and elasticity.

The man who uses United States Tires knows

—and he has told what he knows about United States Tires through vast sales increases, —that United States Tires are the tires of super-service.

Tax on Dogs is Urged.

A writer to the Farmers Home Journal urges a war tax on dogs. He says:

"Now that our National Government is looking for means to raise revenue, why not drop a tax on dogs? It would serve a five-fold object if the tax was big enough. It would rid the country of a host of marauding dogs which are of no earthly use and it would greatly increase the raising of sheep and Angora goats, which are of vast economic value for food, clothing, leather, oils, glue, fertilizer, etc. It would save millions of highly valuable birds that nest on or near the ground and also vast quantities of hens' and guineas' eggs and chicks that are now devoured by worthless dogs.

"It would diminish the spreading of many infectious diseases like smallpox, measles, diphtheria, tuberculosis and others that can be easily carried by pet dogs and cats from one section to another.

"By all means give us a dog tax and enforce it, placing a liberal bounty on the destruction of all dogs not carrying a tag showing taxes paid. If the State Legislators do not protect our children and flocks, let the United States do it, when it will be well done."

Sunday on Wives.

"I plead for a happy, moon-faced religion," said Billy Sunday recently. "Many prayers are cold and stereotyped and many men praying look like a jack rabbit eating alfalfa. Try praising your wife, even if it does frighten her at first. If you went a whole day without cussing your wife she would send for the doctor. Treat her like an angel if you don't want her to be a devil. It'll make you recall her as the bluesashed girl you used to feed with gumdrops and candy hearts with reading on 'em."

"You can't quarantine or vaccinate love. It's like lightning. It hits where it's not expected. If you make your wife happy she'll never grow old. Happiness beats a powder rag or a hair dye."

"Any wife worth her salt is worth praising. It would spoil a mule the way some men treat their wives. They marry to get some one to cook or patch their breeches."

"Men have done a good deal in this world, but women have done as much if not more. We ought to be thankful God has made one apiece for us. If you haven't got yours that's not her fault. If woman is in the mire you can bet your life a mnn pushed her there. The man who seduces a woman or trades on her virtue ought to be shot."

"Woman is there with bells on. She has sold all the oyster soup and baked beans and held all the bazaars and rummage sales that have kept the church steeple from falling down from Manhattan to the Golden Gate. She'd have the devil on crutches if she had her way."

"Many a wife'd rather have the flowers you expect to put on her coffin scattered through her life. There's too much money spent for rosewood caskets and gates ajar that ought to be spent for a hired girl. Some men never say anything good about their wives until they carve it on the tombstone. What irony that 'At Rest,' when the poor slave worked herself to death!"

"Give me a rosebud, a rosebud pink or red; I'd rather have just one tonight than a million when I'm dead."

To the Farmers of Kentucky.

The extension department of Kentucky Agriculture sends the following appeal to farmers of this State, with special application to the Blue Grass region:

The central Blue Grass region is the most fertile part of Kentucky and is capable of producing an enormously greater food supply than it has ever done. It is the patriotic duty of every farmer in this rich section to produce all the food crops possible during this time of stress. Let him not deceive himself by thinking that because he can get a large price for his tobacco, he can buy such food products as he may not raise on the farm.

In the first place, he may be surprised to find food at such high prices that his ground would have been more profitably cultivated in food crops. In the second place, he may find that he cannot buy food, no matter how much money he may have.

We shall not try to tell the farmer whether he shall grow tobacco or not, but we can safely say that he is not doing his duty to his country if he does not produce as much of food products as is by any means possible.

Many of our people have the idea that Kentucky has been in the habit of producing her own supply of foodstuffs, but this is not the case, as we import large quantities of food supplies every year.

If a farmer in the Blue Grass section can grow tobacco and also produce a maximum of food crops, he may grow tobacco, but if it is a case of neglecting one or the other, then there can be no question that it is his duty to give up tobacco. The danger arising from tobacco production in Kentucky at this time is not from the acreage devoted to the crop, but the labor required to grow it. The labor expended on an acre of tobacco would produce ten acres of corn. We have the land in the Blue Grass but not the labor.

"Chamberlain's Tablets Have Done Wonders for me."

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble for a number of years, and although I have used a great number of remedies recommended for this complaint, Chamberlain's Tablets is the first medicine that has given me positive and lasting relief," writes Mrs. Anna Kadin, Spencerport, N. Y. "Chamberlain's Tablets have done wonders for me and I value them very highly." Obtainable at Paul Drug Co.

Sorghum a Valuable Farm Crop.

Sorghum as a farm crop has been generally underestimated. Corn is frequently grown and used under conditions wherein sorghum would be a much more valuable crop. The department of farm crops of the College of Agriculture is of the opinion that a more general use of sorghum is hindered by a lack of information concerning the crop, by the fact that under certain very exceptional conditions sorghum becomes poisonous to stock, and by the opinion that the crop is hard on land. The last two hindrances are by no means serious.

Aside from its special use for syrup, sorghum owes its value as a general farm crop to three outstanding characteristics of the plant. In the first place, the sorghum plant, pound for pound, is nearly as valuable for feeding as corn. Again, under conditions favorable for the growth of corn, sorghum will outyield corn as forage (including ensilage) and will compare favorably with corn in yield of grain. Finally the ability of sorghum to withstand adverse conditions, especially drouth, makes the crop an extremely reliable one for the production of feed. Since the greatest use of sorghum is for feed, its value must be reckoned in its ability to produce feed. The varieties of sorghum are divided into two groups, sweet or saccharine and grain or non-saccharine. The sweet sorghums are grown for forage, pasture, silage and as soiling crops, while the grain sorghums are grown chiefly for grain.

Stop Left over Coughs.

Too Old at Forty?

That is a wail that always goes up throughout the country. But a writer in the June American Magazine says it could be disregarded if people made themselves more useful as they grew older. He writes:

"For man to be too old at forty is not natural. Scientists tell us that the life periods of man compare with the life history of the race."

"In most business and professions the period of mature manhood is commonly the period of great skill. The body still retains its elasticity; previous training and acquired good habits count in daily work; experience now begins to return dividends. The individual develops common sense, conservatism and deliberation. He is less likely to be swayed by the primitive emotions of younger life. Well-laid plans mature; returns from previous investments in time, labor and money begin to come in."

"But it is during this period that the competition of newer workers in the same field begins to be felt. The apprentices in the trades, and students in the schools begin to get a foothold in competition with the established worker. And—what is of vital importance—the beginner is willing to work much cheaper than the experienced man. Thus, experience must guard against the under-cut."

"It is in this period that the greatest displacement occurs. The unprogressive, the dissipated, the timorous, are pushed aside to make room for those having more enterprise."

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfills its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Recreation as Usual.

It will be unfortunate if, in our anxiety concerning the war and the progress of the war, we should spread abroad a gloom in America such as necessarily pervades the nations of Europe.

America is not to be devastated. She is not to be invaded. If her business be disturbed it will be disturbed, chiefly, by unwelcome interference with business. We will have to submit to heavy tax burdens, but these do not count for a great deal in comparison with the mustering of soldiers and sailors, the temporary disturbance of personal relations.

It is not heartless, under these circumstances, to seek rest, recreation and change. It is more essential now than ever that we maintain a well-balanced mind, and that we free our hearts from fear.

Let us take our recreations as usual, more freely, more reasonably. Some persons prefer drilling to golf. Drilling is for them. Others prefer golf to baseball. Probably baseball appeals to a larger number of persons. It is a clean sport, and it is a healthy recreation. Others are to indulge in gardening, which is profitable mentally and physically, whatever the price of seed or how small the crop.

Let the aim of every American man or woman be to maintain a sound mind in a sound body, at this time above all times. The country makes a demand not solely upon one's physical forces or his financial powers, but upon all the faculties of each citizen.

The citizens of America control America, and the course of America has placed her as the leader of the world. There is a call, therefore, for the highest qualities of citizenship, in all the relations of the citizen to his neighbors and his friends; to his business and his business associates; to his party and party leaders. Let every citizen be prepared, especially in his field, to give the best service that he can render.—Louisville Post, Overtaxing the Newspapers.

The new war revenue bill undertakes to nearly, if not quite, tax a large number of newspapers out of business, and to make the rest of them barely self sustaining. It puts a tax of five cents on every dollar's worth of advertising; puts a ten cent duty on wood pulp, which will increase the cost of paper, and makes the postage rate so enormously high that most publishers will be unable to meet it. The newspapers are willing to bear a just burden of the war tax bills but this bill undertakes to make them the goat.

What have the newspapers done to incur this hostility? It is true they have, with space worth millions of dollars, stimulated the farmers to increased production. Is the exterminating tax in return for this?

It is true that they are advertising the liberty loan free of cost to the government at a cost to the newspapers of millions of dollars on advertising basis. They are helping Secretary McAdoo make the loan a success when it is necessary that it should be a success. Is this the reason that a malevolent committee wants to rob many of them of a living?

It is true that they have given millions in space for the recruiting the army and navy. Is this the reason they should be taxed to the limit?

The newspaper has fostered education. It has promoted industry. It has developed resources. It has stood for the law and for the government. It has been the great intelligence bureau of our citizenship. Are all these reasons why it should be overtaxed?

We do not believe that Congressmen, the majority of whom owe their seats to loyal support of newspapers, are going to be so ungrateful and to turn and ruin their friends. We do not believe that Congressmen are so unfair and so unjust as to put upon the newspapers a greater tax than is put upon any other business, such as this bill proposes. If Congress does there will come a day of reckoning. The pen will, after the war, become mightier than the sword, and the Congressmen slain will number all those who vote for the iniquitous tax upon the press.

How the Kaiser Gets His Power.

The German Empire is a constitutional monarchy, in which all the States of Germany "form an eternal union for the protection of the realm and the care of the welfare of the German people." The supreme direction of the military and political affairs of the Empire is vested in the King of Prussia, who in this capacity, bears the title of Deutscher Kaiser (German Emperor). The constitution states that the Emperor "represents the Empire internationally," that he can declare defensive war, make peace, enter into treaties with other nations, and appoint and receive ambassadors. But when war is not simply defensive, or when treaties "relate to matters regulated by imperial legislation," the Emperor must have the consent of the Bundesrat or Federal Council.

The legislative functions of the German Empire are vested in this Federal Council and the Reichstag, or Diet of the Realm. The Emperor has no vote on laws passed by these bodies. The Bundesrat represents the individual States of Germany; it has sixty-one members and these members are appointed by the governments of the individual States for each session. It is presided over by the Chancellor of the Empire. The Reichstag represents the people of the Empire; it has 397 members and they are elected by universal suffrage for a term of five years. It has a president, elected by the Deputies. Both bodies meet in annual session, convoked by the Emperor. The Emperor has the right of provoking and dissolving the Reichstag with the consent of the Bundesrat; but without consent of the Reichstag the prorogation must not exceed thirty days, while in case of dissolution new elections must take place within six days, and a new session must open within ninety. All laws for the Empire must receive the votes of an absolute majority of the Bundesrat and Reichstag.

It will be seen that as Emperor the German monarch has comparatively little power; but as King of Prussia he controls the seventeen Prussian votes in the Bundesrat (the next largest State representation in six) and gains far more power thereby. It should also be noted that the Chancellor of the Empire is responsible, not to the legislative bodies, but to the Emperor alone.

Sprains and Strains Relieved.

Sloan's Liniment quickly takes the pain out of strains, sprains, bruises and all muscle soreness. A clean, clear liquid easily applied, it quickly penetrates without rubbing. Sloan's Liniment does not stain the skin or clog the pores like mussy plasters or ointments. For chronic rheumatic aches and pains, neuralgia, gout and lumbago have this well-known remedy handy. For the pains of grippe and following strenuous work, it gives quick relief. At Paul Drug Co., 25c.

Department of Public Roads.

By Rodman Wiley.

Many people seem to think that any type of road should cost the same amount of money no matter what conditions are encountered or where the road is located.

Some men when estimating the cost of construction of a road in order to determine whether the county will have sufficient funds to construct a certain type, take the average cost of construction of that type in some locality where conditions are different and when they find the road costs more than they had estimated, blame the Engineer and in a number of cases do their utmost to have him discharged.

Seldom do such persons stop to think that conditions are not the same in all counties and seldom alike in any two counties. The number of cubic yards of excavation on one road may be double that on another in the same county, much less in any other county. More drainage structures will most likely have to be built on one road than on another, the material for surfacing the road might have to be shipped into the county, whereas quarries exist along the proposed road in some other locality, material might also have to be hauled farther and water with which to sprinkle the road might not be so plentiful. The amount of metal required for any two roads is not the same, labor conditions, costs of teams, distance of work from railroad, etc., all influence prices, likewise the cost of work.

A well located road can be rebuilt, resurfaced and maintained at a far less cost per mile than a poorly located road. If the well located road has been properly graded and the money expended for grading represents a permanent improvement and the cost of grading will be eliminated in the cost of resurfacing or rebuilding. If drainage structures of permanent type and sufficient size have been provided, the cost is again reduced. It should not be difficult to understand why the same type of road and the same width of metal surfacing in another locality may cost more per mile.

The cost of any road will largely depend upon the following conditions:

First—Traffic, type, width.
Second—Excavation and drainage requirements.

Third—Availability of materials for construction.

Fourth—Labor conditions and distance from transportation facilities.

Rarely, if ever have all these conditions been identical on any two roads or ever two consecutive sections of one road. Comparison of costs per mile on total length of roads may lead to faulty conclusions and worthless cost data.

If any man will carefully consider the cost of several miles of road, he will find that no two miles will be equal. This is not only true of roads built in adjoining counties, but is also true when the construction considered is all on the same road or roads in the same county.

Every mile of Interurban or railroad line does not cost the same and the same statement applies equally to roads. Therefore, when speaking about the cost of any road the various items which enter into its cost must be reckoned, excavation to be estimated at prevailing prices in that territory, all culverts and bridges included, and finally the cost of surfacing, giving due consideration to the availability of stone, water, labor conditions, etc., and a final summation of all elements which enter the cost of the road, will give a true estimate and that is the only way any definite idea can be gained.

The Philosophy of the French soldier.

Here is a statement of the philosophic creed of the French soldiers, or at least of one who wrote it:

Of two things, one is certain: Either you're mobilized or you're not mobilized.

If you're not mobilized there's no need to worry.

If you're mobilized, of two things one is certain: Either you're behind the lines or you're on the front.

If you're behind the lines there's no need to worry.

If you're on the front, of two things one is certain: Either you're resting in a safe place or you're exposed to danger.

If you're resting in a safe place there's no need to worry.

If you're exposed to danger, of two things one is certain: Either you're wounded or you're not wounded.

If you're not wounded there's no need to worry.

If you are wounded, of two things one is certain: Either you're wounded seriously or you're wounded slightly.

LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak..."

I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few doses. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon righted with a few doses of Black-Draught."

Seventy years of successful use has made Theodor's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member, of every family, at times, need the help that Black-Draught can give in cleansing the system and relieving the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, lazy liver, etc. You cannot keep well unless your stomach, liver and bowels are in good working order. Keep them that way. Try Black-Draught. It acts promptly, gently and in a natural way. If you feel sluggish, take a dose tonight. You will feel fresh tomorrow. Price 25c. a package—One cent a dose All Druggists. J. 69

If you're wounded slightly there's no need to worry.

If you're wounded seriously of two things one is certain: Either you recover or you die.

If you recover there is no need to worry.

If you die you can't worry.

The Great Opportunity.

The war of the past thirty months has stirred, as never before, the evil passions of men. It has bred prejudices and kindled animosities that only a new preaching of the Golden Rule and a new emphasis upon kindness, brotherliness, and humanity can allay. Never was the need of humane education so great. The man who would put a million dollars into the training of the youth of this land in the fundamental principles of justice and kindness to every living creature would deserve a place in the Hall of Fame. To give this humane education to a child should be universally deemed as vital as to teach him to read.

With the ending of this war the United States will doubtless be in a better condition than any other nation to respond to the needs of a suffering world. Our institutions and the causes of our successes will be more widely studied than ever. Humane education in every school would be one of the noblest object lessons to which the attention of visitors from other lands could be called.

Who will give the million? With it we would agree to reach every public school of the land. Humane education means the doom of war.

The Horse and Kindness.

One of the most celebrated horsemen of Great Britain, a man who has probably trained and handled more horses than any other man in England for the past twenty-five years, writes:

"Cut out the use of whips, spurs, bearing reins, and all other forms of cruelty. Have confidence in your horse, and let him see that he can safely have perfect confidence in you. Show him that, though you intend to be master, you will treat him always with the utmost consideration and kindness, and you will find that you will have the affection and trust of your horse, and get the best possible work from him.

"I have worked on these principles all my life, with bad and unwilling horses, and have proved them winners every time."

To this man, Lieut. M. B. Remington are turned over all the horses and mules at the remount station which are considered unmanageable and condemned to be destroyed. By methods of kindness and intelligence he renders them all docile and serviceable.

His Vow.

Patrick Dennis, who was addicted to drinking whisky, was often urged by his friends to sign the pledge, but with no avail, until one day they read an account of a man who had become so saturated with alcohol that on attempting to blow out a candle his breath ignited, and he was blown completely to atoms.

A look of horror spread over Dennis' face, and his friends felt the long desired moment of repentance had come.

"Bring me the book, boys—bring me the book," he said. "His breath took fire, did it? Sure, I'll never die that death."

The book was placed before him.

"Hear me now, boys—hear me now. I, Patrick Dennis, knowin' my great weakness, deeply sensible of my past sins and the great danger I've been in, hereby take solemn oath that so long as I live, under no provocation whatever will I blow out a candle again."

The June Woman's Home Companion.

Well rounded in fiction and special articles, the June Woman's Home Companion is an entertaining and useful number. The fiction includes "The Ineligibles," by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd; "The Shell," by Mary Stewart Cutting; "Straight Facts about Todd," by Margaret Busbee Shipp; "Mostly Starch," by Mabel Dill; and "The Beautiful Joke," by Annie Hamilton Donnell. Send for it. 381 Fourth Ave., New York.

The bankers of groups eight and eleven will meet in convention at Danville May 29th at the Hotel Gilcher. One hundred or more are expected.

It is officially announced that the passenger division of the Southern Railway System will be moved from Danville to Somerset in the course of a few days.
